GOOD MORNING, EAST TENNESSEE

New scanners to help reunite lost pets, owners

Young-Williams Animal Center has equipped all Knox County and City of Knoxville Animal Control trucks with microchip scanners to help reunite lost pets and owners.

Animal Control officers can use the scanners in the field to check lost and stray animals for a microchip. If a microchip is detected, officers can contact the owners and take the pet directly home.

Young-Williams Animal Center donated 15 microchip scanners.

The shelter purchased 11 scanners using the Petco Foundation life-saving grant and received four additional units from Mission Reunite, a national 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization dedicated to missing pet prevention and recovery. "It's the identification tag that never falls off, and it can help us bring your beloved pet home to you more quickly. We've already experienced success in doing so thanks to these scanners," said Officer Keith Hogue, supervisor of the Knoxville Police Department Animal Control Unit.

Young-Williams Animal Center provides discount microchipping to pet owners Monday-Friday from 1 to 5 p.m. at its 3201 Division St. location. The fee is $15, which includes microchip registration through Found Animals.

For more information, visit www.young-williams.org.

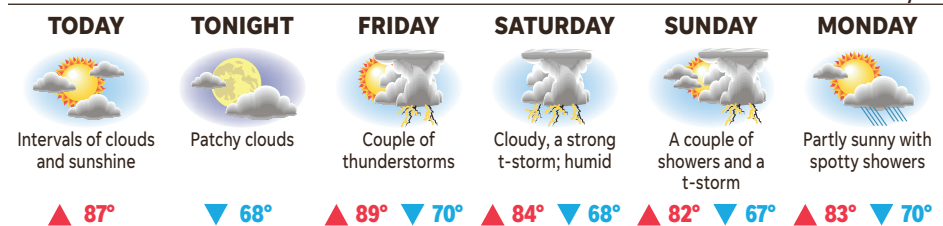

Microchip scanners were presented July 12 at 3201 Division St. Knox County Sheriff's Office Animal Control Officers and others attended. SUBMITTED

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Thursday, July 19, the 200th day of 2018.

1943: Allied air forces raided Rome during World War II.

1969: Apollo 11 and its astronauts, Neil Armstrong, Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin and Michael Collins, went into orbit around the moon.

1990: President George H.W. Bush joined former presidents Ronald Reagan, Gerald R. Ford and Richard M. Nixon at ceremonies dedicating the Nixon Library and Birthplace (since redesignated the Richard Nixon Presidential Library and Museum) in Yorba Linda, California.

1993: President Bill Clinton announced a policy allowing homosexuals to serve in the military under a compromise dubbed "don't ask, don't tell, don't pursue."

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Robin Williams speaks for himself in new HBO documentary

When filmmaker Marina Zenovich sought to make a documentary about Robin Williams, she found that she could do it largely in the late comedian's own voice. "Robin Williams: Come Inside My Mind," uses a wealth of archival footage to put viewers inside his thought process. The film, which includes interviews with David Letterman and Billy Crystal, premiered Monday on HBO and is available on its streaming service, HBO Now. Friends and relatives, including Williams' son Zak, also share memories.

Blockbuster isn't yet selling Russell Crowe's jockstrap - at least not yet

Everything in the closing Blockbuster video stores in Alaska is for sale, except the celebrity jockstrap. The Anchorage store is not yet selling the jockstrap worn by Russell Crowe in the 2005 movie "Cinderella Man" and other memorabilia previously owned by the actor, KTUU-TV reported. The stores in Anchorage and Fairbanks, the last two stores in the state, closed for rentals this week and reopened for video liquidation sales. The host of HBO's "Last Week Tonight With John Oliver" sent the items in an effort to ramp up business.
